SCHEDULE A – REAL PROPERTY

EXPLANATION OF REPORTING METHODOLOGY

---

Many of the properties listed on Schedule A were previously held in Mr. Mouras's name, individually. Title to many of these properties has been transferred to entities in which Mr. Mouras holds a significant ownership interest, often 100%. There are business reasons for these transfers and, if the trustee wishes, the entities controlled by Mr. Mouras now holding title to properties transferred by Mr. Mouras to those entities within the year prior to filing this bankruptcy case will transfer any or all of those properties to the bankruptcy estate upon the trustee's request.

In preparing these schedules, there were a few options available. We could have listed the entities and disclosed the "net value" of each entity. That methodology would not have provided any detail regarding the extent of the value of the assets owned by each entity and would have resulted in understating the magnitude of this case. Instead, we opted to list in Mr. Mouras's Schedule A each parcel of real property owned by an entity controlled by Mr. Mouras, reference the entity actually holding title to the property, and list Mr. Mouras's percentage ownership in that entity. We then valued Mr. Mouras's share of each property and listed a proportional amount of secured claims against that value. For example, if Mr. Mouras owns a 50% interest in an entity which owns a property worth $400,000, encumbered by a $400,000 loan, we listed the value of the property at $200,000 (or half the value) and the debt at $200,000 (or half the amount of the debt), notwithstanding the fact that the amount of the debt actually secured by that asset is the entirety of the debt, or $400,000. To list the property/debt in any other way would give a less accurate picture of the overall economic condition of the estate's assets, at least vis-a-vis the likely return to creditors. If we had merely netted out the values of the properties held by each entity, almost all the entities would have nominal value, if any. A person looking at the Mouras Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs would be led to believe that the estate property in this case was relatively minimal. This really is not true, since Mr. Mouras owns directly or controls directly more than 250 parcels of real estate which have a total gross value exceeding $50 million. The vast majority of these properties have little or no "realizable" equity.

By listing the real properties owned at the entity levels on Schedule A and valuing Mr. Mouras's interests in the entities holding the property at an unknown amount, we believe we are providing a more accurate overall, economic picture.

Many of the properties listed on Schedule A were previously held in Mr. Mouras's name, individually. Over the last few months, title to many of these properties has been transferred to entities in which Mr. Mouras holds a significant ownership interest, often 100%. There are business reasons for these transfers and, if the trustee wishes, the entities controlled by Mr. Mouras now holding title will transfer these properties to the bankruptcy estate.

In preparing these schedules, there were a few options available. We could have just listed the entities and disclosed the "net value" of each entity. That methodology would not have revealed any detail regarding the extent of the value of the assets owned by each entity and would have resulted in understating the magnitude of this case. Instead, we opted to list in Mr. Mouras's Schedule A each parcel of real property owned by one of the entities, reference the entity actually holding title to the property, and list Mr. Mouras's percentage ownership in that entity. We then valued Mr. Mouras's share of the property and listed a proportional amount of secured claims against that value. For example, if Mr. Mouras owns a 50% interest in an entity which owns a property worth $400,000, encumbered by a $400,000 loan, we listed the value of the property at $200,000 (or half the value) and the debt at $200,000 (or half the amount of the debt), notwithstanding the fact that the amount of the debt actually owed on that asset is the entirety of the debt, or $400,000. To list the property/debt in any other way would give a less accurate picture of the overall economic condition of the estate's assets, at least vis-a-vis the likely return to creditors. If we had merely netted out the values of the properties held by each entity, almost all the entities would have nominal value, if any. A person looking at the Mouras Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs would be led to believe that the estate property in this case was relatively minimal. This really is not true, since Mr. Mouras owns directly or controls directly more than 250 parcels of real estate which have a total gross value exceeding $50 million. The vast majority of these assets have little or no "realizable" equity.

By listing the real properties owned at the entity levels on Schedule A and valuing Mr. Mouras's actual interests in the entities holding the property at an unknown amount, we believe we are providing a more accurate overall, economic picture.
